Gambler Noble's Luck Runs Out When Blast Gets Him Near Dallas

DALLAS, Tex.—(AP)—Police today faced an old problem of scanty clues, but this time they were looking for the killer of gambler Herbert Noble—not the attempted slayer.

The "cat" ran out of luck yesterday as the thirteenth attempt on his life—a cleverly hidden explosive—let loose with a thunderous roar.

The silver-haired, self-styled retired gambler was killed as he stopped his car at a rural mail box near his fortress-like ranch.

The killer—or killers—hid in a scrub oak thicket some 75 yards away, then touched off a devilishly-hidden land mine.

The blast underneath Noble's automobile left it a crumbled wreckage and scattered bits of the 42-year-old gambler's body over a wide area.

At least twelve times Noble had escaped death, but not injury, and this earned him the nickname "the cat."

"Hired Killers" Blamed

He blamed "hired killers" for the attempts and said there was an underworld price of $50,000 on his head.

The Kefauver crime committee heard his experiences from a Dallas police officer this year and Noble told a Texas legislative crime investigating committee of gambling—and gambling feuds—in Dallas.

There were few clues for police to follow. One was a mysterious blue pickup truck seen on the dusty country road leading to his ranch near Lewisville, ten miles northwest of Dallas.

R. O. Millican, a rural mail carrier said he saw the truck parked by the side of the road a quarter of a mile from Noble's mailbox. He passed it about an hour and a half before the explosion.

Police also sought three men in Fort Worth. One was once arrested for assault to murder Noble. He was never tried.

The blast that killed Noble was carefully planned. It came about 12:45 p. m. (EST) but the result wasn't discovered until J. G. Cunningham drove down to get his mail and found it, about 2 p. m. (EST) some neighbors said they heard the explosion.

Fourth Explosion Attempt

Wires ran from the hidden mine, through a concrete culvert, and to the thicket where the killer hid. The explosive was hidden in a spot that was directly under Noble's automobile when it stopped at the mail box.

It was at least the fourth attempt to kill Noble by explosion. The first killed his wife by mistake. That was late in 1949 and was followed by a period of gangland violence in Dallas

Mrs. Noble was killed when she stepped on the starter of the automobile her husband normally drove. A bomb exploded.

The gambler then survived a series of shootings—one as he lay in a hospital room recuperating from another gunshot wound.

Pale and shaken after his wife's death, Noble bitterly said he hadn't "done anything" to deserve the attacks. He hinted he knew

War In Korea Has Cost U. S. Five Billion

Expect 4½ Billion More By Next June

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congress received an unofficial estimate today that the war in Korea already has cost the U. S. $5,000,000,000 and may cost at least that much more by next June 30.

That is in addition to the cost in American men killed, wounded or missing in action.

The estimate came from Rep. Mahon (D-Tex) as the House started debate on a record peacetime $59,062,405,890 military budget for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

Not Authentic"

Mahon, chairman of an appropriations subcommittee which drafted the bill, told a reporter that while his estimates were "not authentic", they were based on the best information available to Congress. The cost up to last June 30, he said, was about $5,-000,000,000 and the estimated cost for the year ending next June 30 will be around $4,500,000,000 if the Korean action continues without expansion.

The pending bill does not include the cost of the Korean campaign for this fiscal year, an additional measure being planned to finance that.

No Major Cuts Seen

Mahon's statement was interpreted generally as a bid to Congress not to make any major reductions in the bill because of the gravity of the international situa-

Allied Truce Team Returns To Korea Area

Awaits Order From Ridgway On Talks

By OLEN CLEMENTS

TOKYO — (AP) — Allied armistice negotiators returned to Korea today ready to resume ceasefire talks if the Reds promise to observe the neutral Kaesong zone established for purposes of these negotiations.

Communist radios made no mention of Tuesday's message from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway saying peace talks would be resumed only after the Reds make new neutrality guarantees.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy led the four American delegates back to the United Nations advance headquarters from top secret conferences with the U. N. commander in Tokyo. On his arrival in Korea, Joy said:

"I have no idea when the talks will be resumed. I will wait until the Communists answer General Ridgway's last message."

Await Ridgway Order

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, delegation spokesman, said the order to resume the interrupted negotiations would have to come from General Ridgway, even if Red leaders accept his terms.

The U. N. commander broke off talks after a company of armed Reds marched through the neutral zone. Top Red commanders said way demanded that the Communist was an accident.

In his Tuesday message Ridgway's promise not to allow any more of their armed soldiers to enter the neutral area. This zone extends in a five mile radius from the Kaesong site of armistice negotiations.

Reds Now Accuse

Up to the time U. N. negotiators returned to their advance camp, the Red radios in Peiping and Pyongyang had not mentioned the Ridgway message.

Instead, they accused American troops of violating the neutral zone.

Nuckols said North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il, chief Red delegate, had made such a charge in armistice negotiations. Nuckols liaison officers discussed the charge and it was subsequently investigated.

He said he did not know the result of the investigation.

Red radios accused U. N. troops of violating the neutral zone July 16 by attacks on Panmuchon, which they said was in the neutrality area. Allied maps show the town is six miles east of Kaesong, outside the zone.

Says Money Saved On Defense Plants

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said today that retention of World War II government plants and factories may have saved taxpayers more than $2,000,000,000.

O'Mahoney is chairman of the Senate appropriations subcommittee holding hearings on a $60,000,-000,000 military appropriations bill for operating the defense establishment during fiscal 1952.

The Senator said "some 40 per cent of peak capacity for production of ordnance and chemical supplies for the army "was retained after World War II.

The plants, he added, originally cost $2,400,000,000.

Critical Metals Are Conserved For Defense

Hospital Projects Are Also Frozen

NEW YORK — (AP)—It is now virtually impossible to start the construction of any house except the smallest bungalow.

This is apparent in an analysis of the new restrictions on the use of steel, copper and aluminum.

Even a four or five-room minimum cottage does not fit into the allowances of essential metals now available.

The restricting order, entitled M-4A, issued by the National Production Authority (NPA), has created widespread consternation in building circles. When it was announced on Aug. 3, its full significance was not immediately realized by builders.

The order temporarily froze the start of new industrial and commercial buildings, apartment houses and hospitals, as well as all structures requiring more than minor quantities of the three critical metals.

No More Skyscrapers

The action was taken with the avowed purpose of conserving these metals for the national de-

Rep. McMahon Says:

Iron Curtain Crack Should Be Exploited

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator McMahon (D-Conn) said today the U. S. should lose no time in thrusting more truth into the Iron Curtain crack made by Russian broadcasts of American friendship overtures.

The Moscow radio yesterday broadcast the text of a "friendship resolution" passed by Congress, as well as its transmittal letter by President Truman.

At about the same time, the United States was rejecting as "a propaganda trap" a Russian proposal for a five-power "peace" pact and accusing the Kremlin of violating obligations "to such an extent that the world has lost confidence in the Soviet's respect for treaties."

McMahon, one of the authors of the resolution expressing American friendship for the Russian people, said its broadcast was a victory for the free world.

"Now that we have cracked the Iron Curtain, we must keep at efforts to tell the Russian people the truth about what is going on in the world," he declared.

McMahon has suggested that the United States and Russia exchange visits of lawmakers, with a view toward establishing a better understanding between the two countries. He said, however, he hasn't much hope the Soviets will agree to any such move.

McMahon and Rep. Ribicoff (D-Conn), House author of the friendship resolution, criticized Soviet President Shvernik's reply to President Truman's letter.

Called Propaganda

Ribicoff said the reply has "the familiar ring of distortion and propaganda."

McMahon said it follows "the usual Communist line with monotonous regularity. He added:

"It was filled with evasions, distortions and misstatements which completely falsify the history of the past five years."

The Connecticut senator said if the Soviets want to demonstrate they really want peace they could agree to the United Nations plan for atomic control and could "abolish the Iron Curtain and permit the Russian people to establish friendly communications with the outside world."

Until that is done, McMahon said, the Soviet's "so-called peace offensive will be nothing more than a gigantic fraud."

Oust McCarthy Move Attacked

GOP Says Democrats Take Heat Off Boyle

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Wherry (R-Neb) accused the Democratic national committee today of inspiring a move to oust Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) to "take the heat" off its own chairman.

The committee called the accusation "completely untrue."

Senator Benton (D-Conn), author of the McCarthy ouster resolution, called on the Senate rules committee to order public hearings on his proposal.

A Senate expenditures investigating subcommittee voted yesterday to look into charges that William M. Boyle jr., the Democratic national chairman, had attempted to influence government loans or contracts.

Boyle has denied the charges and said after a White House conference Monday he will remain as chairman until the 1952 party presidential nominating convention.

Chairman Hoey (D-NC) said the investigating subcommittee would send representatives to St. Louis to collect evidence if necessary. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch has charged Boyle got $8,-000 in fees from a printing company which received an RFC loan.

Boyle has said he did legal work for the firm prior to his appointment as party chairman. He denied he exercised any influence in connection with a loan.

Rocket Experts Hope To Set New Records

By BILL RAWLINS

WHITE SANDS, N. M.—(AP)—Jubilant rocket experts, flushed with yesterday's soaring success talked today of new assaults on the rocket altitude record.

They sent the seventh American Viking rocket ever fired swooshing 135 miles up into a hazy New Mexico sky yesterday for a new world record.

Capt. A. E. Ehlinger, navy skipper at White Sands, summed up their feelings.

Not Satisfied

"Olympia Daniel" he said as he hurried into the dugout near the launching platform from the vantage point some three miles distant where he had been with Army Secretary Frank Pace, jr., and other military officials.

"I just couldn't stand it way over there any longer," he said.

Milton Rosen, head of the rocket project for the naval research laboratory, put it this way: "We've worked a long time for this and we're awfully happy. But we're never satisfied with any altitude."

He revealed that Viking No. 8—the eighth in a series of 10 rockets—already is being constructed. Firing is expected early next year.

4,100 Miles An Hour

The flight almost straight up was breathtaking to watch, but no more so than the figures on what the rocket did:

It reached a top speed of 4,100 miles an hour—more than a mile a second.

It took only four minutes, 23 seconds to set the record. You could get to the moon in less than 60 hours at that speed.

The 135 miles cracked by 21 miles the previous single-stage rocket record set Dec. 17, 1946, by a rebuilt German V-2, also fired here.

It was more than 27 miles better than the American rocket record set Nov. 21 by Viking 5.

Academy Silent On Recruiting

Offers To Football Players Charged

WEST POINT, N. Y. — (AP) — U. S. Military Academy officials were silent today on reports that the academy recruited football players, but the New York World-Telegram and Sun said Coach Earl Blaik denied it.

The Chicago Tribune, in a copyrighted story from Flint, Mich., said that Duncan MacDonald, an outstanding high school athlete, had told of a six-week, expense paid vacation at the academy this summer. He said he and 22 others had informal talks with Blaik.

Academy officials said today they had no comment on the story, but that Blaik would have a statement later.

FLINT, Mich.—(AP)—One of the nation's top high school football stars said today a published interview with him about Army's athletic policies was a "misrepresentation of facts."

That was 18-year-old Duncan MacDonald's only comment when he was questioned in connection with a story in today's Chicago Tribune. The Tribune, in a copyright story from Flint, quoted the ace Flint Northern quarterback as relating of "high pressure recruiting of football players for West Point."

It was recalled, however, that MacDonald spent six weeks at the Army academy with the approval of Flint Northern authorities and received credit for studies there toward a high school diploma which he received on his return here.

ADMITS RECRUITING

WEST POINT, N. Y.—(AP)—Head Football Coach Earl H. Blaik said today that West Point yearly recruits a percentage of its football team from the nation's high schools.

"If we did not do that," he said, "we would be unable to have any athletes in West Point able to play a normal schedule."

Blaik's statement came in the midst of a controversy over dismissal of 90 cadets, including most of the football squad, for cribbing in classroom examinations.

Hope To Settle Iran Oil Issue

British Negotiator Expects Agreement

Tehran, Iran — (AP) — Britain's chief negotiator, Richard Stokes, said today he is convinced the Iranians want to reach a settlement with Britain on oil nationalization as soon as possible.

He said the outcome depends largely on the attitude the Iranians take at today's bargaining session. Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's representative is expected to put forward his country's future intentions toward the Anglo-Iranian Oil company in a formal statement then.

Stokes made the statement—the most optimistic one in months from a direct participant in the talks—upon his return this morning from a one - day inspection trip of the shut - down Abadan refinery.

Stokes said he hoped to get a broad general agreement as soon as possible so tankers can begin moving oil out of the jammed Abadan storage tanks and the refinery can be opened for business.

U. S. Increases Loans To Spain

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States has added $5,600,-000 to its loans to Spain. The new loan, for water power and mining development, was announced yesterday.

It brought to $36,100,000 credits advanced to Spain out of $62,-500,000 authorized by Congress.

Copper Strike Looms In West

Would Cut 95% Of Production

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—(AP)—A strike which could cut off an estimated 95 per cent of United States copper production was voted early today for not later than Aug. 20.

The Metal Trades Council, representing all AFL unions in the copper industry, took the action at a meeting here.

Council spokesmen said the walkout would hit the Big Four of copper—Kennecott Copper Corp., Anaconda Copper Mining Co., Phelps-Dodge Copper Co., and American Smelting and Refining Co.

The move nearly duplicates, but with a time limit, the recent vote of the Independent International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

Union demands, released only Monday, call for more equalized wages involving: The doubling of present shift differentials of four, six and eight cents an hour, a uniform eight-hour day, plus broadening of insurance and welfare programs.

Industry officials say the uniform eight-hour day demand amounts to paying the men for their lunch period.

Fires And Blasts At Defense Plants Are Investigated

OLYMPIA, WASH.—(AP)—The U. S. Attorney General has urged thorough investigation of "numerous" fires and explosions at defense plants.

J. Howard McGrath told the National Association of Attorneys General yesterday:

"When an enemy is ready to strike, he probably will have enough agents throughout your various states to be a grave danger."

McGrath called upon local law enforcement officials to probe all accidents that slow down the nation's defense effort to see if subversive activities are involved.

He said thus far no definite pattern of sabotage has been established, but explosions and fires in defense plants and railroad wrecks have been "too numerous."

U. S. and Canada Relieve Shortage Of European Oil

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The oil shortage in Europe caused by the break in Iranian production is being made up out of supplies on hand in the United States and Canada.

A statement yesterday by Bruce K. Brown, deputy petroleum administrator, said a number of U. S. oil companies are making arrangements to increase Middle East and Caribbean crude oil production by about 230,000 barrels a day.

Additionally, he said, under a pooling agreement reached since a squabble over nationalization halted shipments from Iran, about 200,000 barrels a day of Middle East crude oil which normally goes to the U. S. and Canada is being sent to Europe.

Seaway Bill's Revival Seen

May Be Tacked Onto Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON — (AP) — New strategy developed today to get the controversial St. Lawrence seaway proposal before the House. Reps. Zablocki (D-Wis) and Roosevelt (D-NY) planned to plop it into the middle of the $8,500,000,000 foreign aid bill now before the House foreign affairs committee.

A similar plan in the Senate is being considered by Senators Moody (D-Mich) and Aiken (R-Vt).

They were ready with a rider which would authorize construction of the $818,000,000 water and power project, which was turned down two weeks ago by the House public works committee.

More Alleged Reds Arrested

Taken In New York, Baltimore, Cleveland

(By The Associated Press)

The FBI has seized another batch of alleged American Communists yesterday, promised more arrests, but said there would be "no hysteria, no mass raids, no roundup of thousands."

The latest roundup netted five more Communist leaders in New York, Baltimore and Cleveland. A sixth person, described by the FBI as an attorney for the Red Party, was arrested in Baltimore.

All six were charged with plotting to advocate violent overthrow of the U. S. government. This same accusation was levelled against 11 convicted top-rung Communists leaders and 34 more accused lesser Reds now awaiting trial.

Dick Contino May Enter Army After He Leaves Prison

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—California's director of selective service, Lt. Col. Kenneth H. Leitch, says accordion player Dick Contino should have no difficulty entering the army after he gets out of jail.

Contino was sentenced to six months in prison yesterday for draft evasion and told to submit for induction when he's freed. He also must pay a $10,000 fine.

Leitch said the 21-year-old musician's felony conviction will not automatically make him a 4-F and thus ineligible for the draft.

Senate Keeps Hands Off West Point Dismissals

WEST POINT, N. Y. — (AP) — Extenuating circumstances may clear some of the 80 military academy cadets admitting cribbing, West Point officials say, but the exact status of the other 10 cadets involved still is not clear.

Possibility that fewer cadets would be dismissed than the 90 originally accused of cheating became clear yesterday as Senate investigators in Washington decided to keep hands off the case, at least for the present.

Col. James B. Leer, the academy's public information officer, said that the screening board now is going over the cases of some of the 80 admitting cribbing.

Courts Martial Planned

It was explained that the screening board might find new explanations or extenuating circumstances that will acquit the cadets, although they admitted their guilt to an original special board that recommended the dismissals.

For those cadets not admitting cheating, the president of the army said in Washington that the academy superintendent would have to decide whether they were to be discharged administratively or be given courts martial.

Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving, superintendent of the academy, indicated that the method finally used would depend on the evidence on hand.

Coercion Denied

"If guilt is not established, he said, the charges will be dropped.

Irving held a news conference yesterday, setting at 80 the number of the accused cadets who have admitted their guilt. He also said that 29 cadets, in addition to the accused 90 had been investigated but were not charged, because of insufficient evidence.

The superintendent denied allegations by the cadets that they had been coerced into admitting their guilt. But a "committee of cadets concerned" promptly reiterated that "threats and intimidation" were used in the two-month probe.

In an unsigned statement, the cadets said they would be willing "to testify under oath in a closed session to the above stated facts."

Both men suffered frostbite and were brought to the Veterans' hospital at this French Alpine climbing center.

Iron River Wins In Legion Meet

U. P. Champs Beat Flint By 2 to 1

Iron River rallied with two runs in the ninth inning to defeat Flint 2-1 in an opening round American Legion Junior baseball championship tournament game at Iron River's fairgrounds diamond this morning.

Trailing 1-0 going into the last of the ninth, Iron River manufactured two runs without a hit. Jimmy Linna walked and was advanced to second when Pat Gallagher dropped a perfect bunt along the pitcher's lane. Smith, Flint hurler, made the play at second base but missed the runner and both men were safe.

Double Steal

On the next pitch Linna and Gallagher executed a double steal to occupy second and third. Catcher Bumpy Fregetto squeezed Linna in with a bunt to tie the score at 1-1, Gallagher advancing to third.

Gallagher came home on a wild pitch moments later to give the Upper Peninsula champions a first round victory. Smith had allowed Iron River only three hits in the nine-inning game.

Southpaw Roland Pearson went the distance for Iron River and scattered six hits.

Play Again Tomorrow

Muskegon and Kalamazoo, paired in the other first round game this morning, were forced to move to the Crystal Falls diamond because of wet grounds at Stambaugh. Result of the late game was unavailable this noon.

Iron River will return to action tomorrow against either the Muskegon-Kalamazoo winner or the winner of a game between Kalamazoo and Detroit. The tournament is a double elimination affair.

Avoid Summer Slump In Milk

Farmers Told to Give Cows Shade, Water

Part of the summer slump in milk production can be avoided by following a few simple management practices, R. C. Lewis, Michigan State College dairy specialist reminded the state's dairy farmers today.

He pointed out that it is especially important to give cows a handy water supply. That's because drinking large amounts of water is the main way cows cool off on hot days They need up to 100 per cent more water in summer than they do normally.

Another important management practice for top summer production is giving them plenty of shade. If shade can't be provided in the pasture the cows should be kept in the barn during the hottest part of the day. Otherwise they become uncomfortable and suffer from the heat if they're constantly exposed to the sun on hot days.

Additional feedings of hay or silage should be given, especially if pasture is becoming short or is drying up, Lewis said. It's a good practice even on good pasture, and high producing cows should also be fed grain according to their production.

Although pasture is a good roughage it does not provide enough nutrients to maintain high milk production, he pointed out. The grain can be any homegrown feed such as corn or oats.

Salt should always be provided for the cows. Lewis suggested feeding it loose in a box where the cows can eat it as they please. A salt block is satisfactory if the cows are also getting salt mixed in with their grain.

Railroad Ore Shipments Up

All-Rail Movement Boosts Tonnage

Maximum demand for iron ore to feed the nation's steel industry is resulting in increased all-rail delivery of ore from the mines to the smelters.

This is supplementing the lake vessel transportation of ore to the tune of about 4,000,000 tons a year from the Lake Superior region.

The ore travels south and east and in gondola and hopper bottom cars which have never before seen an underground mine in Michigan or an open pit mine in Minnesota.

Start Wauseca Mine

Among the many railroads involved in the all-rail movement is the Chicago & North Western, whose facilities are being called upon for additional ore transportation with expanding need for steel.

Latest all-rail shipping by the North Western, which started yesterday, is from the M. A. Hanna company's Wauseca mine at Iron River. The schedule calls for the shipment of 12 to 15 cars of screened ore per day to East Steubenville, W. Va.

Fifteen cars per day are now being moved to Granite City, Ill., from the Ishpeming area. The C&NW is also moving some miscellaneous amounts of ore each week from other Lake Superior mines.

These all-rail shipments are in addition to the much greater volume of ore moved by rail to docks on Lake Superior and at Escanaba on Lake Michigan.

Receipts of ore from three ranges to the two C&NW docks at Escanaba this year exceeds last year to this date by 1,050,021 tons. Major increase in receipts here is from the Gogebic range as the following tonnage figures reveal:

Range	1950	1951
Gogebic	158,341	930,690
Marquette	290,993	208,553
Menominee	2,234,793	2,594,905
Total	2,684,127	3,734,148

The increase in tonnage from the Gogebic range represents tonnage being shunted by rail to Escanaba, by-passing the Ashland, Wis., port. Shorter water haul from Escanaba is responsible for the change. Boats can make three trips to Escanaba compared to two trips to Ashland in the same passage time.

More Foreign Ore

Foreign ore also is increasingly becoming a major factor in iron ore haulage. Bethlehem is now receiving iron ore from its new El Paso mine in Venezuela. The ore is unloaded at Bethlehem's steel plant on tide water at Sparrows Point, Md.

On May 17 the Baltimore and Ohio Railway officially opened its new import dock at Baltimore for receiving iron ore from foreign sources.

In a reversal of the century-old practice of moving iron ore eastboard on the Great Lakes, this year Brazilian iron ore was received at Buffalo by rail, loaded on board the steamboat Adriatic and moved generally westerly over Lake Erie and south on Lake Michigan to Indiana Harbor, Ind.

Rock Soldier John E. Norkoli Enjoys Rest Program In Japan

A leaking beach ball problem is quite different from the Korean problems Pfc. John E. Narkooli, brother of Charles, Arne and Henry Narkooli of Rock, usually has to settle in his regular job at the 196th Field Artillery battalion currently supporting the First Marine division in Northern Korea.

Shown with John are two Department of the Army civilians who work in Tokyo and "Remind me of the girls back home," Narkooli reported. "What the boys in Korea need is more rest and recuperation. Everybody here connected with the rest and recuperation program is sure doing a wonderful job," he told the reporter.

He graduated from Rock high school in 1941. John formerly served with the 78th AFA battalion, 2nd Armored division at Fort Hood, Texas.

As an inactive reserve he was called back to duty at Fort Riley, Kansas, and was stationed at Camp Carson, Colorado with the 196th FA Bn. He left Camp Stoneman for Korea Jan. 23.

Beauticians Off Price Control

Barber Shops Are Also Unaffected

Everett J. Davis, Office of Price Stabilization director for West Michigan and the Upper Peninsula, pointed out Monday in Grand Rapids that barber shops and beauty parlors have now been removed from price control.

"The Defense Production Act of 1950 as amended last week by Congress specifically exempts from price control the prices charged and wages paid for services performed by barbers and beauticians," Davis said.

The exemption was effective August 1. Cosmetics and other goods sometimes sold at retail in barber and beauty shops remain under price controls however, Davis emphasized.

Barber and beauty shop services previously had been covered by Ceiling Price Regulation 34, and had been limited to the highest price charged during the period from December 19, 1950, to January 25, 1951.

The special action of Congress exempting barbers and beauticians from price controls has no effect on several hundred other service operators subject to the provisions of CPR 34, Davis said. Dry cleaning establishments, laundries, auto and appliance repair shops, real estate brokerages, plumbers, and a host of other service businesses still are frozen at their December-January prices, and must have on file with the OPS District Office a list of ceiling prices. These prices also must be posted in each place of business.

The attorney general was not a member of the President's cabinet until 1814.

If It's Results You're After For Rheumatism--Try O-Jib-Wa

THE THOUSANDS OF RHEUMATISM and Arthritis sufferers right here in Michigan reporting amazing results from O-Jib-Wa Bitters is convincing proof that you should try it.

Mr. William McComb, Flint, suffered with rheumatism and arthritis before he tried O-JIB-WA BITTERS. Now he urges every person to try it.

Mr. McComb

"I spent a lot of money with very little results before I tried O-JIB-WA BITTERS. The arthritis in my knees and right arm was so bad that I had to drag myself around with the use of a chair. It was all I could do to raise my arm to feed myself. The pain was terrible and needless to say, I had to quit my job at the Buick. On the recommendation of friends, I started taking O-JIB-WA, and can truthfully say that I was surprised at my improvement in less than a month. The aches and pains left me and except for occasional stiffness, my rheumatism and arthritis is completely gone. O-JIB-WA BITTERS also did wonders for my stomach, kidneys and nerves and gave me lots of pep."

The truth quickly told—Many medicines have come and gone during the past 35 years, but the merits of O-JIB-WA BITTERS have made it a continual success. If its results you're after, you can't do better than give O-JIB-WA BITTERS a fair trial. Available in three economical sizes at

Straits Traffic Figures Prove Need For Bridge Construction

THE state highway department has reported that auto traffic across the Straits of Mackinac was nearly 13% larger in the first seven months of this year than in 1950. A total of 321,235 cars were ferried across the straits in that period, compared with 272,030 in the same period a year ago.

On July 28 of this year 7,082 cars were ferried over the straits, a record for a single day. The previous record was 6,790 cars on July 1, 1950.

These are impressive figures but they do not tell the whole story. Many motorists are deliberately bypassing the straits to avoid the long delays and inconvenience. This is particularly true of folks living in the populous lower tier of counties who travel to the Upper Peninsula. These people are travelling by way of Chicago.

The state will put a new ferry into service before long but that in itself will not solve the problem. Nor will the addition of other ferries solve the problem. The only final and adequate solution is the construction of a bridge across the Straits of Mackinac so that motorists can commute between the two peninsulas unimpeded.

The auto traffic at the straits is constantly increasing. Undoubtedly it will continue to increase for years to come. The rate of increase, however, will be sharp if, as and when a bridge is constructed. This is an important consideration in plans for financing the project.

The experts have proved the feasibility of the bridge project both from an engineering standpoint and from a financial standpoint. There is no further necessity for delaying the start of this project to unite the two peninsulas of Michigan.

Building Permit Is Core Of Building Code

THE core of the city's building code ordinance is the requirement for a building permit. Only by this means can the city know of building projects and thereby regulate the construction in accordance with code requirements. The purpose of the building code is to provide assurance that buildings will be well constructed, safe for occupancy and built in such a manner that the investment of present and future owners will be protected.

Until recently the city's building permit ordinance was of slight value, other than to serve as notification to the city assessor that property subject to real estate taxes was being constructed or remodeled. As often as not, building projects were well under way even before an application was made for a building permit.

Under the present ordinance, the building permit must be secured before any construction can be started. The permit cannot be issued until plans and specifications are submitted to and inspected by the building code inspector. During the progress of construction periodic inspections must be made to determine that the project is in conformity with the plans and specifications and, of course, in conformity with requirements of the building code.

Many people apparently are unaware of the requirements and frequently call the construction workers on the job before a permit has been applied for. Then they want the permit issued immediately, usually even before plans and specifications are submitted. These requests are necessarily denied.

It is to avoid these disappointments that the city officials have appealed to prospective buildings to submit applications for building permits at least three days before construction is contemplated and longer in the case of commercial construction.

It's Time To Act On Flood-Control

ALL up and down the Missouri, which lived up to its name again and left its "Big Muddy" imprint on the cities and towns, the farms and industries of the river valley, the battle cry is "it will never happen again."

There have been similar cries before, but year after year the Missouri and the Mississippi rise over their banks to flout man-made efforts to keep the waters within bounds. The cry is stronger this year, however, for this time the rivers went on their worst rampage in a century.

And there have been lots of plans to control the floods, too, along with lots of arguments over their merits.

Currently, the Pick-Sloan Plan seems to have the approval of Congress. In the last six years, more than a billion dollars have been appropriated for this system, a 10-state inter-agency affair. In its entirety, it would include 105 dams, plus control basins, and levees from Sioux City, Ia., to St. Louis. Over all, it is a vast five billion dollar project.

Thus far it is 25 per cent completed, but a lot of the rest of the plan has been bypassed by Congress for urgent defense work. Lt.-Gen. Lewis A. Pick, co-author of the plan, answered criticism of failure by pointing out that the plan must be carried out in its entirety to insure flood protection for all parts of the basin.

There is other criticism which embraces the whole idea of the Pick-Sloan Plan. Opponents claim it is a piecemeal program enmeshed in politics and conflicting local interests. These critics want a Missouri Valley Authority, like the successful TVA. A bill for an MVA is pending in Congress, but it has been pending for several years without action.

With this year's flood damage in Kansas and Missouri already estimated at nearly a billion dollars, it would seem to be a time for action, rather than argument, for argument will not hold back the flood waters.

If the Missouri Valley people are determined "it will never happen again," the differences between the two plans must be resolved quickly to bring about measures that will work in the near future.

Then Congress must do its part in working out the necessary legislation, remembering that stemming the Big Muddy is urgent defense, too—against a billion dollar enemy.

President Vetoes Pension Increase

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has shown both courage and good judgment in vetoing legislation to increase the pension of thousands of war veterans who are disabled for reasons not connected with their military service.

The measure would have boosted some pensions from $60 and $72 to $120 a month and would cost the government billions of dollars through the years. The first year's cost would be a modest $16,700,000 but toward the end of the century the annual cost would be nearly 400 million dollars.

The country should be fair and as generous as possible to those war veterans disabled in military service, but this measure would have doubled pensions for many veterans whose disabilities are in no way connected with military service.

MIDSUMMER TRAVESTY
(Christian Science Monitor)

A man in Madison, Wis., started out with a petition in his hand in search of signers. The document was beautifully and eloquently worded. But of the 112 he approached only one would sign. Some refused "for fear of the consequences." Several asked if he were a Communist. One man ordered him out "with that Communist stuff."

Sounds as though Americans were on the alert. They usually sign anything labeled "petition." But—wait a minute. The man was a newspaper reporter conducting an experiment, and the petition he circulated was simply composed of excerpts from the Declaration of Independence and Bill of Rights. Said the one man who signed, "We never were closer to losing the things they stand for."

The Communists, to be sure, have circulated some pretty phony petitions. And they have borrowed just about every noble word in the political lexicon for their own dubious uses. But shall we for that reason forswear these cherished symbols?

It is a sad commentary upon the times and a bitter indictment of the bigoted, the frightened, and the cynical exploiter of men's fears that 111 Americans, doubtless "good men and true," should be confused and alarmed when they read such words as: "We hold these Truths to be self-evident, that all Men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights. . ."

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—This week the un-American activities committee will unfold the story of a Communist spy ring in Japan which sent the innermost secrets of the Tokyo high command back to Moscow.

This is an important story and the public needs to know about it. However, it's also important that the public realize that a lot of the current Communist spy news, now making headlines, is extremely old and warmed-over hash. The story about the spy ring in Japan, for instance, was told in this column almost three years ago—Dec. 21, 1948.

Incidentally, one reason the story was never officially released by the U. S. government was because General MacArthur would not authorize it. In December 1948, the late Secretary of Defense Forrestal cabled MacArthur asking for a release, but it was not given.

However, here is the vitally important story, as told in this column on Dec. 21, 1948, and about to be repeated tomorrow before the un-American activities committee:

Just as the Russians planted key men inside the U. S. government, so they also began long before the war to plant key spies inside Japan. They began operating about 1934 and continued to 1941—two months before Pearl Harbor.

Two Germans were involved, two Japs educated in the United States, two Americans, and one German-British newspaperman. One of the Americans was Agnes Smedley (now deceased) who lived 20 years in the Orient.

The other American was Tycho Lilliestrom, N. S. vice consul at Harbin, Manchuria. Born in Finland, Lilliestrom served 21 years in the cvonsular service, and died in 1943. It was in his home in Harbin that the Communist spies assembled a powerful radio set later smuggled into Japan.

WHAT RUSSIA LEARNED

So successful was the Russian spy ring in penetrating innermost Japanese government circles that some of the war lords' most vital secrets were transmitted by shortwave radio to Moscow. The spies learned among other things that:

1. The Jap war lords would definitely attack the United States. This information went to Moscow two months before Pearl Harbor.

2. Japan would not join an alliance against Russia. This was learned in 1937, and caused Stalin, shortly thereafter, to sign the Nazi-Russian alliance, which in turn left Hitler free to wage war against France and England. Undoubtedly this piece of information alone swayed the tides of history.

3. Japan would not attack Russia. This information, sent to Moscow in 1941, caused Stalin to pull all his reserves out of Siberia and concentrate them in front of Moscow. Without this intelligence information, Moscow might have fallen.

Head of the Communist spy ring was Richard Sorge. Born in Baku, a soldier in the German army, he carefully prepared for his work by taking a special espionage course in Moscow and then becoming Far Eastern correspondent for several German newspapers.

In Shanghai he met Agnes Smedley, who put him in touch with Japanese Communists. In Tokyo, posing always as a German newsman, he became press attache to the German embassy and close friend of the German ambassador. All the secrets of the embassy passed through his hands.

LOS ANGELES JAPS INVOLVED

Sorge's co-conspirators were a Los Angeles Japanese woman named Tomo Kitabayani; a Japanese artist from the United States named Totiki Miyago; a German businessman and radio operator named Max Klausen; and most important of all, Hozuni Ozaki, a Jap Communist who became an editor of the Tokyo Asahi and a close adviser to the prime minister of Japan.

Ozaki had access to some of the highest Japanese government secrets, which were transmitted to Moscow via Sorge and Klausen's shortwave radio.

Klausen sent his messages by going out in a boat, dressed as a fisherman, and operating his radio as far as possible from shore. Although the Japs intercepted the messages and tried hard to find the transmitter, they were never able to do so. Nor were they ever able to decipher the code until shortly before Pearl Harbor, when, through an accident, they caught one of the spies, Ritzu Ito, formerly of Los Angeles.

Into The Past

They are: Nick Goymerac, end; Keith McDonald, all-U. P. center; Donnie Photenhauer, all-U. P. and all-state back; Bob Craig, back and Stuart Peterson, back.

Gladstone—A five car derailment on the Soo Line railroad about nine miles east of Hermansville Thursday night caused an interruption in service on the road for about 12 hours.

Manistique—John Kelly, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, received a letter yesterday from Private Harry C. Wilson of Company E, Seventh Infantry, Fort Lewis, Washington, seeking information that would enable him to locate his mother.

20 YEARS AGO

Escanaba—Captain James Armstrong, whose duties have precluded the enjoyment of Sunday motor trips with his family, and Mrs. Armstrong, enjoyed their first visit away from home together for years this week. Captain and Mrs. Armstrong drove to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., the first of the week, and visited there with relatives. Capt. Armstrong recently retired from the lighthouse service.

Manistique—Ed Gray, Jack Hupfer and Clarence Peterson defeated Tom McDonald, James Lasich and Albert Ackerman, respectively in horseshoe matches played at the Central school grounds. The above winners together with Tony Busch and Harry Olson will enter the semi-finals next week.

Cpl. Sharpe, Back From Korea, Pays Visit To Miss Liberty In New York

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The little excursion boat Liberty nudged the dock at Bedloe's Island and the crowd of sightseers began to debark. There was one soldier in the crowd, and he held the hand of a pretty, brown-haired girl in a red-checked dress.

As they stood at the top of the gangplank, Cpl. Robert L. Sharpe, of High Point, N. C., stopped a second. He stared up at the big green Statue of Liberty and then smiled a greeting. He was paying his respects to an old friend, for though Bob Sharpe had never seen the Statue before, he knows what liberty means better than most.

It wasn't long ago that he was captured by the Chinese Communists in Korea. He was on a train that stopped near a tunnel, and the Reds made the American prisoners get off. Then the Communists massacred the GIs, shooting and bludgeoning and bayonetting them.

Bob Sharpe fell to the ground with a bullet in his leg and a hole through his arm where another had hit. Another boy fell on top of him, and that saved his life. He lay in the field for a day, with his fingers pushed in the holes in his arm to keep from bleeding to death.

"But I didn't feel too bad. There were no Chinese guards around to bother me. Even a little bit of freedom felt good."

That's why Bob Sharpe and his bride of a week, Jean, went out to see the Statue of Liberty. It's the symbol of that freedom that Bob can appreciate more than the average person.

"I sort of wish I was a foreigner," whispered Jean. "It must be quite a thrill to see this when it means hope and a new life."

"It's nice to see it, any time," said Bob.

They walked up to the crown, a 12-story climb. Bob's leg, the one that was wounded in Korea, ached some, and Jean had trouble on the narrow, curving stairs with her high heels. They were very impressed with the size of the Statue—"You never realize just how big it is until you see it."

Bob and Jean came down and sat on a bench on the island, waiting for the boat to take them back to the city. They ate a hot dog and drank a soda and he talked about his experiences.

"I was a prisoner for three months," he said. "I used to think about home and all the things I'd done. But you know what I thought about most?"

He held up the paper cup full of Coke.

"This," he said. "I never thought a fellow could dream about a Coca-Cola."

Bob's a serious boy, a blond, blue-eyed youngster who talks with a soft North Carolina drawl.

"Everybody thinks he's changed," says Jean. "I suppose he has. He's older. He's not but 19, yet I know boys who are much older than he is—boys who are 21 or 22—and Robert seems older than they are."

"He's more serious now, I suppose. He worries. Times when he's quiet and everyone thinks he's thinking, but he's worrying. But he's certainly a good deal easier in the mind than when he first came home."

MISS LIBERTY WAS IN SIGHT as Cpl. Sharpe visited the famed Statue in New York harbor with his bride.

Bob talked a bit about baseball. He's a rabid fan. He likes to remember how he hit pretty well against Billy Joe Davidson, the North Carolina southpaw signed by the Cleveland Indians for $120,000.

"I always hit him easy," Bob grins. "I wanted to play ball professionally. Once I had a chance to sign a contract, but I couldn't leave home just then. Now, this arm—"

He rolled up his right sleeve and there was an ugly scar about the size of a quarter on his biceps. He said how it hurts him to throw hard since he was wounded.

With baseball out, the Sharpes are going to see how the Army would be as a career. He has another year to go, which he'll serve at Fort Bragg, near his home in North Carolina. If that doesn't work, Bob doesn't figure he'll have much trouble landing a job.

But the two have taken quite a fancy to the north.

"I never could understand why the northern boys griped about the south," says Bob. "Now I know. There's so much more to do up here. We might try to come up here to live. We've got some mighty good friends in the south I'd hate to leave."

The boat came to take them back. Bob turned and took a last picture of the Statue with Jean in the foreground. On the boat he bought a souvenir ash tray with a picture of Miss Liberty on it.

"You can always use an ash tray," he said.

Good Evening . . .

By CLINT DUNATHAN

HYDROPHOBIA—Older residents will remember the cry "Mad dog!" that sometimes echoed along dusty village streets in summertime, followed by screams of fleeing children and the appearance of a slavering, mangy mongrel.

Now there is protection—to a degree, yet the rabid dog, the bitten child, and the danger of rabies (or hydrophobia, as it is called in humans) is still with us.

Until 1882 and the experiments of Louis Pasteur in curing rabies in animals and hydropobia in humans, the infected always died.

Because rabies, or hydrophobia, untreated is "100 per cent fatal," there is every reason to know more about the acute infectious disease and its control.

A LIFE IS SAVED—Pasteur's name is linked for all time with the science of bacteriology which he founded. His cure of rabid animals in 1882 caused him to believe he had also found a cure for the disease in humans.

Yet he was afraid to treat them until one day when a small boy was brought to him by his parents who begged that their son, in the agonies of hydrophobia, be saved. Pasteur hesitantly consented. The boy recovered—and the world received the cure that has saved thousands of lives.

Today the antirabic treatment is available. But today the peril of infection, the long days of suffering and anxiety, continues—because the principal source of infection is largely uncontrolled.

CAUSE AND EFFECT—The uncontrolled source is the dog. Michigan Department of Health and Michigan Department of Agriculture recognize this in a bulletin titled "Protect Yourself, Your Family, Your Dog Against Rabies."

Dogs are most important in rabies control but any animal can have it and spread it by biting another animal.

Rabies is caused by an invisible organism called a virus, which is found in the saliva of a dog or another animal having the disease. The virus is transferred to man through the bite of the diseased animal.

In order to cause the disease, the virus must travel through the nerves to the central nervous system, either the spinal cord or the brain.

Incubation period for rabies is two weeks to several months, depending on the location of the bite. It may take two or three months for the virus to travel from the toe to the brain, or only a few weeks if the infected wound is on the face.

Symptoms in man include great pain, headaches, convulsions, paralysis and finally death. The name hydrophobia came from the patient's efforts to drink despite violent spasms of the throat muscles—supposedly a fear of water.

WATCH YORU DOG—Rabid dogs go through symptom stages that may be recognized:

There is a period of strange behavior, then furious behavior when the dog wanders alone and tends to snap at others and the final furious stage when it attacks all animals within reach and drools saliva. Paralysis and death follow quickly.

Also there is sometimes only the paralysis observed, known to veterinarians as the dumb rabies.

PROTECT YOURSELF—Michigan Department of Health and Michigan Department of Agriculture authorities recommend:

1—Have your dog vaccinated once a year and don't let him run loose and become a stray; 2—Report stray dogs to your police or health officials; 3—Have any dog bite treated immediately by a physician; 4—The dog that does the biting should be confined for 10 days for observation; 5—Help enforce dog control laws in your community.

READERS' CORNER

A number of readers recently have asked whether there is a term for such coined words as "radar, WAC," etc. Such a word or name may properly be called an acrostic: "a word formed from the initial letters of other words."

Radar is formed from RAdio Detecting And Ranging; WAC is from the initial letters of Women's Auxiliary Corps; Socony is the acrostic formed from: Standard Oil Company Of New York; ASCOB (a name used to designate one of three variety groups of cocker spaniels): Any Solid Color Other than Black.

Pocatello: Please tell me the correct past tense forms of the verbs fit, and knit—M. M. D.

Another: Fit has only one past tense form: fitted. We say: The suit fits him well. The suit fitted him last year. It has always fitted him well.

The past tense of knit is either knit or knitted, as: She knit a tie for him last year; as: She knitted a tie for him last year.

Phoenix: Since the heart was at one time considered the seat of spiritual or conscious life, is there any connection between the use of symbols on sleeves, as on military uniforms and academic robes, and the expression, "wearing one's heart on one's sleeve"?—W. L. S.

Answer: No, although you have an interesting point. "Wearing one's heart on one's sleeve" is first used by Shakespeare in Othello, Act I, Scene 1: "I will wear my heart upon my sleeve for daws to pick at." This cliche generally means to show one's affections for the whole world to see.

Fishin' And Sittin'

By Gordon Martin

MARTIN

There are many kinds of fishing that the anglers like to try, and there's sport in every one of them, nobody can deny. There are those who cast their flies for trout, and those who troll the sea, and the men who like to fish the lakes where bass will hit with glee. But there's some of us who like to loaf, when angling fun we seek, and we do our fishing sitting down beside a gurgling creek.

Now it takes some preparation for our outing on the bank, and we load some worms upon a hook we hope the fish will yank. Then we park ourself beneath a tree with luncheon box at hand, and we dream of all the whoppers that we hope to bring to land. Stretching out upon the grass afar from life's eternal fuss, we will throw a kiss to Lady Luck and hope she smiles on us.

We would ask no greater privilege than snoozing in the sun, and to come awake and find that on our hook is fishing fun. And we don't begrudge a man his trout, or bass or flounder flat, but we're thankful to the Lord who made a good old channel cat. We will pass the other fishing by, when angling fun we seek, and we'll have our sport while sitting down beside a gurgling creek.

Gangland Murders Will Be Solved Soon, Say Police

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—The gangland slayings of Kansas City mobsters Tony Brancato and Tony Trombino Monday night may be solved within a matter of hours, Police Chief William J. Parker said today.

Four men are in jail, booked on suspicion of shooting Brancato and Trombino as they sat in a parked automobile. Parker identified the suspects as James Fratianno, 37, of Encino, Calif.; his brother, Warren, 35; Sam London, 38, in front of whose Hollywood home the shootings occurred, and Sam Lazes, 36, of Los Angeles.

"One or all four had direct knowledge of the shootings," said Chief Parker.

Can-Can Girls Dance On Dock To Greet GI's

SEATTLE —(AP)— The can-can girls are back in the line again for the boys just out of the line . . . . and how the GI Joes love it.

The fancy-kicking dancers, their skirts swirling to give a peek-a-boo glimpse of shapely legs, made their return appearance at dockside yesterday as a transport brought 1,553 soldiers home from Korea.

There were wolf whistles and cheers as the combat veterans lined the rails of the Pvt. Joe Martinez.

The dancers had welcomed two of Seattle's nearly two dozen rotation troopships, but their routine was dropped after letters of protest were received by the semi-official civic group, Greater Seattle, Inc.

Back they came yesterday in answer to what an official of the group said was "popular demand." The GI's in Korea had read about the girls and wanted them on hand.

Mead Corporation Borrows 7 Million

NEW YORK—Sydney Ferguson, chairman of the board of The Mead Corporation, announced that the company had borrowed from a bank and an insurance company $7,700,000 under a loan agreement which provides that the amount may be increased in 1952 to $10,000,000 at the company's option.

The proceeds of the loan have been used to retire $6,550,000 of term loan indebtedness now outstanding and the balance will be added to the general funds of the company and used to pay for the cost of plant additions and improvements, and for working capital.

The new loan matures in installments from January 1953 to July 1963. The company in 1952 takes down the additional $2,300,000, maturities will extend from July 1963 to July 1966 and the proceeds will be used for the same purposes as the funds now obtained.

Luxuries Curb Tax Proposed

Reuther Offers Plan To Senate Committee

DETROIT — (AP) — A tax on spending to curtail "standards of luxury" rather than the standard of living is proposed by Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers.

Reuther yesterday submitted his plan for a progressive tax on spending to the Senate finance committee, which has just closed hearings on tax legislation in Washington.

He offered his plan as a countermeasure to a federal sales tax, which he said was being pushed by the National Association of Manufacturers to shift the tax take from families of less than $1,000 a year cash income.

"This would be in order to obtain a reduction of 25 per cent in taxes paid by families in upper income brackets," he said.

Critical Metals Are Conserved For Defense

fense emergency.

One observer promptly commented that "this means the end of all skyscraper building," and he added "it looks like a victory for the home builders' lobby."

After several days of analyzing the order, however, home builders were disillusioned.

The order specifies that no individual one-family dwelling can be started if it uses more than 1,800 pounds of carbon steel, including its plumbing supply lines, or more than 35 pounds of copper.

If the house is to have copper water pipes, a total of 160 pounds of copper can be used, but only 1,450 pounds of carbon steel.

No structural steel, such as I-beam girders and columns, no aluminum and no alloy or stainless steel can be used in any house.

Those figures may sound big to the uninitiated, but they fall far short of the amounts used in the average four or five-room cottage.

Just before the NPA order was announced, the National Association of Home Builders had completed an extensive study in an effort to convince the government that very small percentages of the total production of metals go into the building of a million homes.

This study came off the press after the NPA order was out. It quoted the findings of the government'se housing and home finance agency in a survey of 30,000 new homes built under FHA-insured loans. These houses averaged 1,000 square feet in size. This amounts to a house measuring about 31 by 32 feet and including four or five rooms.

Small Home Requirements

This average small house used 3,733 pounds of steel—more than twice the amount now permitted. It used 299 pounds of copper. Even the elimination of structural steel girders, columns and lintels left a total of more than a ton and half of steel.

The importance of steel in a house can be realized when you consider such items as nails, 400 pounds; reinforcing bars and mesh, 300 pounds — even the areaways around basement windows involve 14 pounds in this sample house.

The U. S. Steel Corp., explains that many items in a house, commonly referred to as galvanized iron, are made of carbon steel. Even the automobile is carbon steel. This is ordinary, non-alloy steel. The fenders of an automobile are carbon steel. The bumpers are alloy steel.

The restrictions on the use of copper and copper-base alloys is even more serious. The electric wiring in the average 1,000 square-foot house calls for 35 pounds of copper—the entire allotment under the new order M-4A. In addition, a three-wire lead-in from the power line involves the use of 11 more pounds of copper.

Under these restrictions all such items as copper termite shields, roof flashing, gutters and downspouts are out. Aluminum cannot be used as a substitute.

Although order M-4A is temporary, applying only to construction started between Aug. 3 and Oct. 1, builders are pessimistic as to any considerable liberalization in the fall. On Oct. 1, the building industry will be under the controlled materials plan, a division of the NPA, which will allocate critical metals to fill defense needs.

Hearings on Red Activities Will Resume Tomorrow

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) said today the current hearings of the Senate's internal security subcommittee may help to "clean out the Communists" in the Institute of Pacific Relations (IPR).

The subcommittee, on which Ferguson is a member, is probing for any subversive influences on U. S. Far Eastern policies, with its attention focused particularly on the IPR.

Its hearings will be resumed tomorrow.

An IPR trustee, professor George Edward Taylor of the University of Washington at Seattle testified yesterday that he felt there had been some Communist penetration of the institute.

But he said that Communist attempts to infiltrate everything, from the FBI to Sunday schools, must be expected; that the battle against it never ends.

Dry Is Leading In Mississippi Primary Election

JACKSON, Miss. —(AP)— Ross Barnett, a staunch "dry" making his first political race, held a narrow lead early today in an eight-candidate battle for governor of Mississippi.

Barnett took over the lead late last night from 69-year-old former Governor Hugh White and 42-year-old Lt. Gov. Sam Lumpkin who see-sawed in top position in earlier tabulations.

In the closest race in recent Mississippi history, a 7:30 a. m. (CST) tabulation of 808 precincts of the state's 1782 precincts in yesterday's Democratic primary Showed:

Barnett 24,993.

Former Governor Hugh White 24,060.

Paul Johnson, Jr., 21,717.

Lt. Gov. Sam Lumpkin 20,238.

Find Pressure Not Involved

Defense Contracts Not All Politics

WASHINGTON—(AP)— It's not true, says a House subcommittee, that a Michigan manufacturer had to employ only Democrats to get a government contract.

The charge made by Rep. Crawford (R-Mich.) was dismissed yesterday by the armed services subcommittee, which said it found no supporting evidence.

Crawford, who comes from Saginaw, set off an inquiry in January when he made public a letter from an unidentified Saginaw sales agent who said the political pressure was exerted on one of his customers.

Committee Chairman Herbert (D-La) said Crawford was satisfied with the investigation and told members of the group he "wouldn't fool with it any longer."

The House group also checked on another letter it received from Crawford. It was from an Oscar Anderson in Rudyard, Mich., who said he couldn't get a job at Woods Products Co. in Rudyard because he is a Republican.

The committee found there was no such company. The Chippewa Wood Products Co. of Rudyard answered the description but investigators found that firm had no government contracts.

C&NW Receives 4 Diesel Locomotives

Delivery of four new 2,500 horsepower diesel passenger locomotive units to the Chicago and North Western Railway has been announced by R. L. Williams, president of the railway.

Two of the diesel units, built by Electro-Motive and equipped with five-chime air horns, went into service Monday night on the North Western Limited between Chicago and Minneapolis and will also power the Twin Cities 400. Each of the units is equipped with two boilers to supply heat for the train in winter months, double the capacity of conventional diesels.

Delivery is nearly completed also of six 660 horsepower switchers from American Locomotive Company and 557 fifty-ton box cars of a total order of 2,000 have been received. Equipment still on order by the North Western and its subsidiary company, the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railway Company, includes twenty-four diesel locomotives and 250 seventy-ton covered hopper cars.

Alleged Communist Released On Bail

DETROIT—(AP)—Harry Price, a Greek awaiting a deportation hearing as an alleged Communist, was free today on $500 bail, in the form of a U. S. treasury bond, furnished by the Civil Rights Congress.

U. S. District Judge Arthur F. Lederle freed Price yesterday holding that federal law specifies that securities sold by the U. S. treasury must be accepted as bond money by U. S. courts.

Price surrendered after his original bond made by the Civil Rights Congress was cancelled by Attorney General Howard McGrath on grounds that the congress could no longer be trusted as a bondsman for alleged Communists.

Cargo Service From Milwaukee To Europe Opens

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — Direct cargo service between Milwaukee and the Mediterranean was opened yesterday when the Norwegian ship Kollbryn dropped anchor.

The vessel of 1,375 tons carried 100 barrels of green olives from Spain in addition to 300 cases of dry vermouth. After taking on a cargo of machinery, automobiles and leather dressing she is scheduled to begin her return trip to Casablanca and Milan tonight.

Gambler Noble's Luck Runs Out In Fatal Blast

who was behind them and threatened to "take the law into his own hands."

In the weeks following his wife's death, Noble was questioned about the death of Louis Green, Dallas underworld leader who was ambushed as he left a Christmas eve party.

Linked With Binion

Green had been questioned in the death of Noble's wife.

During the period he dodged for his life, his name and that of Benny Binion, Nevada gambler and former Dallas resident, were linked. Binion, in Nevada, is under indictment in a million-dollar-a-year policy racket case returned by the Dallas grand jury. Binion has successfully fought efforts to extradite him to Texas for trial.

Noble freely admitted he had been a gambler, but said that he had quit. He moved from Dallas to the ranch—made it almost a fortress, guarded by giant dogs. Floodlights were turned on the house at night

Two previous attempts at his life were made there. Once a bomb exploded in his private airplane. Again, explosives were found in a spare airplane motor. A flyer, Noble had built a landing strip on his ranch.

Lately there had been no attempts.

"They'll never quit," he told a friend. "They're laying low now. They'll make one big effort one of these days."

The big effort apparently came yesterday.

Texas Ranger Lewis Rigler said the blast tossed parts of Noble's body over a 30 or 40 foot radius He said one foot was picked up far from the larger parts of the body.

Playing cards bullets, and $550 cash Noble apparently carried in the car were found.

Called "Wealthy" Man

Noble was once called a "wealthy" man. But no one knew his worth at the time he was killed. He owned considerable property.

His survivors include a daughter, Freida 20, and two brothers, both of Dallas.

One brother came to the scene of the explosion but would make no comment.

Postal authorities were to look into the case to see if any mailbox angle would bring in the federal government.

A quick crowd of curious gathered.

On the streets of downtown Dallas, people commented on the news freely. The publicity on the attempts at Noble's life made him widely known, though few persons knew him by sight. He kept his movements secret. He was back in Dallas before it was known he had testified before the Texas legislative crime investigating committee.

In testimony before the committee Noble told about the Dallas gambling feud.

He was questioned about Binion.

"Benny never did like me too much", Noble told the committee. "I wouldn't just bow down to him."

Lt. George Butler of the Dallas police force appeared before the Kefauver committee. He gave testimony about a recorded telephone conversation. Butler said the conversation was an effort between Binion and Noble to patch up a feud over Dallas gambling.

The death of Noble was the second underworld killing in the last 24 hours. Monday night gangland warfare in southern California rubbed out Tony Brancato, 36, and Tony Trombino, 31. They were shot. Their bodies were found slumped in a parked car on a quiet Hollywood street.

tion and the necessity of building up American defenses. The appropriations committee already has cut $1,542,608,500 from the amount requested by President Truman. A Senate appropriations subcommittee is holding hearings on a similar bill.

No further major cuts are expected when the House starts amending its bill tomorrow. However, many members favor an amendment to limit the future use of American troops for general Eisenhower's Western European defense army. A move to impose such a limitation in the draft bill last April failed by only five votes.

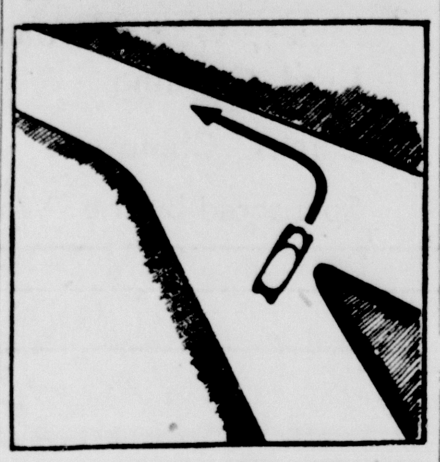
Unwritten Laws Of The Road

No. 21: Stop At Right Angles To Traffic.



Be careful at a "Y" intersection where your roadway approaches the main highway at a flat angle. Starting from this position you have a long flat diagonal run to make before clearing of traffic coming from your left. You face this traffic in an almost head-on position. It is difficult to twist your neck and look over your right shoulder to see traffic coming from your right.

Avoid this by turning right on approaching the "Y" intersection. Stop at right angles to traffic on the main highway. Here you can see easily in both directions. When a gap in traffic appears you have only a short run straight across the highway to clear traffic coming from your left.

SAFETY MEASURE

When a "low ceiling" prevails, airliners now begin to reduce their altitude as far as 20 miles from the landing field, instead of flying on top of the clouds until they are directly over their destination. This was made possible by improvements in blind flying methods.

Civil Service Curb Proposed

'Little Hoover' Group Makes Suggestions

ROSCOMMON, Mich. — (AP) — Clipping the powers of the civil service commission was recommended today by Michigan's "Little Hoover" committee.

Meeting at the Higgins Lake Training school, the joint legislative committee on government reorganization recommended that the commission be deemphasized and that the personnel system be administered by a single official appointed by the governor.

The recommendation would strip the commission of the power to set rates of compensation and to abolish and create civil service positions. The legislature would set pay rates and agencies would be in charge of creating and abolishing positions.

The present limitation of two non-civil service positions in each agency would be expanded, under the recommendations, "to the needs of the respective departments."

The committee recommended that all top level personnel in the governor's office be exempted from civil service.

Disbarment Of Communist Bar Members Urged

LANSING —(AP)— Initiation of disbarment proceedings against Communist lawyers by the Michigan State Bar grievance committees was recommended to the bar today.

A special committee released its recommendation for action by the bar at its convention Sept. 27 in Detroit.

The grievance committees "are under an affirmative duty" to begin the proceedings, the special committee said.

Headed by E. Blythe Stason, dean of the University of Michigan law school, the special committee said that present laws and the canons of ethics of the bar are sufficient to uphold disbarments.

The group, however, recommended amending the ethics to spell out "acts of disloyalty to the government" as grounds for disbarments.

It also proposed an amendment to state law to permit the state police subversive squad to turn over information concerning subversive lawyers to the state bar.

Heat In Texas Causes Deaths

Dallas Declares Water Emergency

DALLAS, Tex. — (AP) — A blistering heat wave with a rising death toll continued without relief for Texas today.

No prospects of rain deepened the gloom of farmers faced with withering crops.

City officials in many cities begged residents to save dwindling water supplies for fire fighting and essential home uses. Lawns and flowers turned brown in temperatures that have reached as high as 116 degrees.

The high temperature yesterday was 109 at Presidio in South Texas.

Dallas reported its 12th heat victim. During the current heat wave, Houston has had three heat deaths and six more persons were hospitalized.

Dallas city officials declared a water emergency and asked an end to sprinkling of lawns and water wastage. Police cars patrolled residential neighborhoods to stop lawn watering.

Fort Worth residents were asked to stop night watering of lawns to allow water reservoirs to refill.

It's amazing how quickly you can lose unsightly fat at home. Obtain liquid Rennel at your druggist, mix with grapefruit juice as directed and take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. If you do not lose weight with the very first bottle just return it for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment while reducing with Rennel.

'Here's One Reason Why Peavey Men Know Grain,'

says Alfred Johnson
Osnabrock, N. D., farmer

GRAIN SAMPLES—hundreds of them—are sent in every month to home office laboratories by Peavey Elevator managers as a service to their customers. Here Bruce Gessner (right), Peavey manager at Osnabrock, N.D., weighs a sample for Alfred Johnson. Standing on tiptoe to watch is little Orin Dean Johnson.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

"Bruce Gessner has sent a lot of grain samples to Minneapolis for me and for other farmers around here," says Alfred Johnson of Osnabrock, N.D.

"He knows grain—and Bruce says the samples he sends in help him keep a double check on his own testing equipment, too.

"We really appreciate this Peavey service because we can keep up on the market and know what our grain will bring. That's especially important now, with another harvest not too far off.

"Like many other Peavey men, Bruce is a helpful man to have in the community. And we've found him to be a square shooter at all times."

There's a Peavey man in your neighborhood too. Call on him often. He wants to help you in every way he can.

There Are a Few Things Wrong With Women After All

BY DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

What do men most dislike about women?

It's a subject that provides endless conversation in all male haunts and one of which the boys apparently never tire.

In the interests of the much-maligned female sex, I have conducted an informal survey among an average group of men, both married and unmarried. Here are the unedited comments of 10 U. S. males:

1—"Women won't say what's wrong. They get mad and when you ask them what's the matter they just say, 'oh, nothing.' But weeks later they're still nursing a grudge."

2—"They complain about the drudgery of being a housewife and mother after marriage. But before they're married they just can't wait to achieve that awful state."

3—"They're never on time. Their watches are never right. And the whole thing is a deliberate plot, because they believe it's good psychology to keep a guy waiting."

4—"When they can't win an argument any other way, they resort to tears."

5—"They don't think the way any do. They'll ask their husband if they can have a new coat and then admit they've already bought it."

6—"They're not sporting. In any situation they take unfair advantage because of their sex."

7—"They're insincere. When they are being sweetest and most lovable, it's almost always because they want something."

8—"They're catty. They never have a good word to say about another woman."

9—"In any argument, they always win. And the worst thing is that they make the man like it."

10—"They never have change on a bus."

These may or may not be just criticisms, but there they are, for what they're worth.

Men's real gripe against women probably is summed up by the eleventh of my survey group, a confirmed bachelor, who thundered:

"Women are always guilty of wanting to marry men."

Social Situations

Every time you buy something new your child asks: "How much did it cost?"

WRONG: Tell him, even though you know he will go around telling all the neighbors what you paid for it if he thinks he can impress them.

RIGHT: Try to teach him not to ask the price of everything — and if he does happen to know what something cost to keep that matter to himself, instead of bragging about it:

You drop by to visit with a friend and see that she is very busy.

WRONG: Say: "You go right ahead with your work, and I'll sit and talk to you."

RIGHT: Stay a few minutes and then leave.

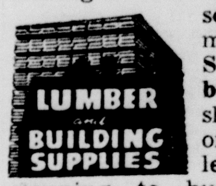
LUDINGTON BUY-LINES

by Sue Donimus

A MAN hopes his lean years are behind him, but a woman hopes hers are ahead! And besides owning a trim figure, every woman also leans toward owning sterling silver for her future: You'll find a most complete line of sterling at Blomstrom and Petersen's. They invite you in to browse and see the beautiful new patterns in their Towle, Gorham, International, Lunt or Oneida Heirloom. Two contrasting new patterns by Towle are Contour and King Richard. Very modern is the simple pattern, Contour, with no ornamentation at all, but a chaste, flowing line. King Richard is richly ornate. $35 and $37 a place setting of 6, tax inc. Start planning now for a sterling future from Blomstrom and Petersen!

ONE critic says Washington is the only place where sound travels faster than light! Without making a lot of noise, let me present a sound argument for the Stephenson Lumber Company and shed a little light on building problems. If you're planning to build or remodel, you'll be glad to know that Stephenson's have an excellent supply of dry, seasoned lumber. I suggest you stop at Wells and sound them out on the requirements for your building needs today.



A FRIEND of mine tells me he loses his balance when his wife goes shopping! If your husband says the same thing, be sure you help him add something to that bank account by sending him down to Young's Haberdashery where their storewide sale will have him dizzy! Most especially, see that he stocks up on those famous name brand shirts that are all reduced $1. A huge selection of colored shirts in neat stripes and subdued patterns. He'll be going around in circles, the best circles, when he's outfitted himself from Young's amazing stock of suits, slacks, jackets, and sport coats. And remember, mama, the women's slacks are reduced ½ and jackets, ⅓. Lots of things to fall for at Young's!

CLINT DUNATHAN was objecting to looking at vacation snapshots the other night. Bet he's the fellow who defined a photograph album as "The strange views people take of things"! I don't know what your views are on snapshots, but I think they're something every family should be exposed to. For crisp, clear snapshots be sure to give your films the quality developing and printing that Gust Asp features. Enlargements made that anyone will be glad to look at, and distinguished service on color films. At Asp's!

WHAT restaurant a man chooses is usually a matter of taste. I have good news for everyone who will be eating at the Fair Grounds during the next week. There's real fare at the Fair when you visit the eat shop under the grandstand that's run by Vagn Gydesen of Vagn's Bakery Bar. The whole area has been enclosed with glass and screens to keep out flies and dust, and this improvement means you can enjoy Vagn's goodies in more pleasant surroundings. It's fine to know there will be delicious food prepared by local management. So when it's time to eat at the Fair, remember there's a grand stand under the grandstand—it's run by Vagn!

THERE'S one thing about money — it talks, but it never gives itself away! Can't say that about the new Studebakers tho. One smooth ride in this wonder car, and it tells all. You can feel the power of that newly designed engine, and you'll notice the amazing mileage on just ordinary gasoline—no premium fuels required! And Studebaker is a dead give away on price, too. It's entered the low price field of cars, and that's a talking point! They'll tell you how you can own one at Petersen and Jacobson Auto Service!

"IF exercise will eliminate fat", says friend husband, "how in the world can a woman get a double chin?" Some new arrivals that will really set our feminine tounges awagging are the smart new wool jersey dresses at Lauerman's. Wish I had room to describe them all! They're Jean Lang originals in really unusual styling. One bright red frock has a strip of navy down the side; a crown jewel crest cleverly fastened at the shoulder. Popular three quarter sleeves on most styles. Handsome accents of contrasting fabric are found in inverted pleats or gay yoke detailing. You'll never know how smart you can be til you buy a Jean Lang original at Lauerman's!

IT'S the son-rise that gets me up in the morning. If I waited for the sunrise around here I'm afraid I'd be 'bedridden! The only good thing I can say about our beastly weather (that's when it rains cats and dogs) is that it caused someone to invent the really charming new umbrellas I found at the Fair Store. Made of plastyte in a clever new folding arrangement the umbrellas come in bright colors as well as dark green and navy at a tiny price. They were featured in Look magazine and are excitingly new for both the young miss and us older gals. It's always Fair weather with a Rainbelle from the Fair!

Lawmakers Get Flag Proposal

Special Session Will Consider Issue

LANSING—(AP)—The "Michigan Flags for GI's" hot potato was thrown into the unwilling hands of the Republican-dominated legislature today.

The subject of furnishing money for the flags at about $23 each was opened by Governor Williams for consideration at the special session called for Aug. 20.

The session originally was meant to consider a simple amendment to present law to permit the construction of a new state office building under bids which were higher than expected.

The fuss all started when Williams turned down the request of a GI in Japan for a state flag on the grounds that the legislature had not furnished any money for the purpose.

Secretary of State Fred M Alger, jr., a candidate for the Republican nomination to oppose Williams' expected reelection bid next year, wrote Williams that he had received "an increasing number of requests" for state flags and that he had sent the flags "purchased from my own personal funds."

Master Plan Again Urged

Consultant Writes On Quarry Proposal

The need of a master plan for efficient development of the quarry area is again emphasized by John J. Collier, district representative of the National Recreation association.

In a letter to the city recreation commission Collier reiterates the recommendation he made during a visit to Manistique about two weeks ago.

His letter, in part, follows:

"I will not go into detail concerning my visit except to mention again the importance of having a Master Plan for the quarry park area. As you well know the controversy still ebbs and flows as to the use of the pool, whether to fill it in, fence it, etc.

"I noticed that there has been a new location laid out for the baseball and softball fields well as the bandshell. The latter seems to be still indefinite.

"All of these things point to the very essential need for a master plan for this area, a plan which would settle once and for all how the area should be developed in relation to other facilities in the community and how it can best serve the long range needs of the people of Manistique.

"Without such a plan drawn by an experienced recreation planner, several things may be done which will handicap total development. The area needs to be considered as a whole and not just the needs of special groups or individuals.

"Marinette, Wis., found themselves in a similar predicament two or three years ago. They finally secured the experienced planner from the National Recreation association who on a cost basis drew their complete master plan. With such a plan they have been able to get a great deal of help from local service clubs, etc., who have taken various pieces of the plan as projects. The resulting park will eventually cost the city little in capital investment.

"I don't know whether or not such a plan would serve the same purpose in your community but the chances are that a number of the things would be done by interested groups.

"It seems to me that not another dollar should be spent on the quarry area until you have a definite sound plan from which to work. You as a recreation commission will find that your job will be easier and you will feel surer as you move ahead in your recreation program."

NEW YORK—(AP)—A policeman's widow, complaining of headaches, was sent to Shore Road hospital in Brooklyn by her doctor for X-rays. The pictures revealed a bullet lodged under her left cheekbone.

There were no scars on her face, but she had lost her right eye in an operation following an injury she said was caused by a fall in her home.

The fall occurred recently, but the bullet apparently had been under her cheekbone for several months. If the bullet did not enter under the eye, the doctors do not know how it got there.

Cornell, winless in 11 starts in the Bay de Noc league, can take heart from the record posted by the 1899 Cleveland team of the National league . . . That Cleveland club compiled the most disastrous record ever experienced in the majors, winning only 20 games and losing 134 for the ghastly percentage of .130.

* * * * *

The team lost 40 of its last 41 games including 24 in a row, another record . . . Six different times it lost at least 11 straight games and only once did it manage to win two contests in succession . . . It finished exactly 80 games behind the Brooklyn pennant-winners.

* * * * *

During the midst of that dismal season, a correspondent for the Cleveland Sporting Life wrote a long essay, full of rationalization, on the joys of watching such a bad team . . . He stressed the following points: 1—There is everything to hope for and nothing to fear . . . 2—Defeats do not disturb one's sleep . . . 3—An occasional victory is a surprise and a delight . . . 4—There is no danger of any club passing you . . . 5—You are not asked 50 times a day, "What was the score?" People take it for granted you lost.

* * * * *

On the last day of that memorable season, the Cleveland manager was approached by an 18-year old youth who clerked at a cigar stand in a Cincinnati hotel . . . The youngster said he had heard the Cleveland pitcher was sick and wanted to know if he could take his place . . . Surprisingly enough, the manager gave his permission and the youngster, Eddie Kolb, pitched and lost the game 19-3.

* * * * *

After that game the team gathered in a hotel room for a little ceremony and presented a diamond locket to their traveling secretary, George W. Muir . . . "We're doing this for you," a spokesman said, "because you deserve it . . . You are the only person in the world who had the misfortune to watch us in all our games." . . . The following year Cleveland joined forces with the American league where it has remained since.

Favorites Cop Opening Tournament Wins; Four Games Slated Tonight

First round games in the district softball tournament here were run off last evening in damp and chilly weather and tourney officials were preparing for four games tonight as clearing skys were forecast.

The favorites ran true to form last night as Harnischfeger topped No Names 1-0 in class A, Power & Light blanked the Gladstone Lions 5-0 in class B and Clairmont Transfer nipped Gladstone Veneer 10-7. Clairmont Oldtimers edged Gladstone Merchants 7-5 and Liberty Loan bumped Escanaba Township 9-1 in class C.

Pitchers Star

In the class A feature at 9 o'clock at Memorial field, John Pierpon threw a three-hitter at the No Names with Dale Wood behind the plate. Mickey Kutchenberg paced the Red Sox at the plate with three for four, including an inside the park homer. Ike Eis relieved Ken Dufresne in the fifth for the losers with Angie Hirn working the rest behind the plate.

Power & Light's Bob Corriveau topped Pierpon's performance with a one-hitter in downing the Gladstone team 5-0. Bud Kenneally caught for the winners. Wahowiak and Hoehn were the losing battery.

Clairmont of the American league used Sullivan and Courneene on the mound with LeBay catching to post the 10-7 win over Gladstone Veneers. Rivers and Maki worked for the losers.

Games Tonight

The Clairmont Oldtimer win over Gladstone Merchants was in the form of a mild upset as the Escanaba club played head-up ball to cop the verdict.

Following is the schedule for tonight's games.

At Memorial Field

Nahma vs. Spalding Fleetwoods, 6:30

Stonington vs. St. Thomas Oldtimers, 7:45

Paper Mill vs. White Birch, 9:00

At Royce Park

St. Ann's vs. Maple Grove

The White Birch-Paper Mill feature should be a battle. White Birch has three league wins over Paper Mill this season but the latter team is always tough in tournament play. The Lancour brothers will no doubt get starting nods for White Birch while Tom Elegeert is favored to hurl for Paper Mill.

Nahma is highly regarded with only one league loss. Fleetwoods won the class B championship two years ago and could be tough if pitching holds up.

The tournament will continue each night with finals slated for Sunday.

The team will stay over at Chicago tonight and entrain for Ft. Wayne tomorrow morning. At Ft. Wayne the team will stay at Concordia College.

Generals Eyed By Baseball Men

NEW YORK—(AP)—Four top ranking generals head the list of 11 mystery candidates still under the club owners' consideration for the $65,000-per-year job as commissioner of baseball, the Associated Press learned today.

High on the list of candidates, although not necessarily available, are Generals Dwight D. Eisenhower, Douglas A. MacArthur, Maxwell D. Taylor and Hoyt S. Vandenberg.

Ford C. Frick, president of the National league, and Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds, are the only baseball men still on the pared down list—from 40 to 11.

The other five candidates are important industrialists whose identities cannot be divulged at present not one is in politics.

Businessman James A. Farley and George Trautman, head of the minor leagues, rated among the "Big Five" in the fore of the speculation, were among the 29 eliminated at yesterday's daylong meeting of the 16 big league executives at the Waldorf Astoria hotel.

One of the 11 may be named the new commissioner to succeed A. B. (Happy) Chandler when the owners meet again Aug. 21 in New York. Since Chandler's resignation July 15, baseball has been governed by the executive council.

Perfect Scores Win Skeet Championships

DALLAS — (AP)—Ed Scherer of San Antonio and Mrs. Leon Mandel of Chicago turned in perfect scores yesterday to cop national championships in the National Skeet association tournament here.

Mrs. Mandel won with 100/100 score in the women's 20-gauge division. It was her second title in as many days.

Scherer won the 20-gauge championship, open division.

Ted Gray Looks Good In Tiger Loss To White Sox

DETROIT — (AP)—The Teddy Gray story has a new and encouraging twist today.

Its background was yesterday's 2-1 Tiger loss in 13 innings to Chicago's White Sox.

Ted Gray

Gray, youthful Detroit lefthander, is best known as the starting pitcher who rarely wins a ball game.

Before yesterday Ted had started 16 games. He usually headers in the showers innings.

He won only three of the 16 games and pitched the whole distance only three times.

Best Performance

Many were the critics who harped on Manager Red Rolfe's choice of Gray to start yesterday's game against the Chicago White Sox here.

But here's the encouraging side of what happened:

Gray, showing control and sparkling pitching in the clutches, gave his best performance (and his longest) since he started his downhill slide more than a year ago.

He allowed only one run, a home run by Eddie Robinson, in the 12 innings he pitched. The last 17 batters who faced him failed to get a hit.

Gray was pulled from the lineup for a pinch hitter (Neil Berry) when the Tigers threatened in their half of the 12th. The pinch hitter failed to come through.

Cain Loser

In the next inning Bob Cain, Gray's replacement, was tagged for a run to give the White Sox a 2-1 victory.

The loss went on Cain's record (8-9). But Gray was the fellow who suffered most. He needed a win to boost his confidence.

The victory went to Ted's old buddy of Highland Park, Mich., days—Billy Pierce. Pierce was as stingy as Ted, giving up only one run on Steve Souchock's double and Kolloway's single in the seventh.

Robinson scored the winning run on Jim Busby's single into left field. Robinson had walked and taken second on an infield out.

Only Perronville of the six contenders lost in last Sunday's slate. The league - leading Escanaba Bears tipped Perronville 3-2 on a two-run homer by Right Fielder Chuck Meyers in the ninth inning. Previous to that game Perronville had won four straight.

Indians Nearing Make Or Break Phase Of Flag Race

BY RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The Cleveland Indians, favorites in many quarters to end the two year reign of the New York Yankees as American league champions, are nearing the make or break phase of the pennant race.

Ed Garcia
Indians

Following their current brief homestand, the Indians embark on a short road trip and then return home Aug. 20 for an 18 game stay that in all probability will decide their fate.

The Indians, trailing the pace-setting Yankees by a half game today, must clean up on their long home stand. It provides the Indians with their best opportunity to take command of the race for upon its completion they take off on a 16-game swing that includes stops in every other American league ball park. Pennants seldom are won on the road.

Garcia Chalks Win

Observers believe that if the Indians can leave their home lot with a fairly comfortable lead they will be hard to overtake.

Mike Garcia, husky righthander, pitched the Indians to within a half game of the Yanks last night as he turned back the St. Louis Browns, 5-1, on a neat four-hitter The Yankees were idle. In other American league games the third place Boston Red Sox bowed, 7-4, to the Philadelphia Athletics and the Chicago White Sox nipped the Detroit Tigers, 2-1, in 13 innings. The Red Sox now trail by 4½ games and the White Sox by 6½.

In the National league, the Philadelphia Phillies took a twi-night doubleheader from the Boston Braves, 3-1, and 1-0 in 15 innings, the Chicago Cubs downed the Cincinnati Reds, 4-1, and the St. Louis Cardinals swamped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 16-7. The New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers were rained out.

Garcia blanked the Browns on two scratch hits until the ninth when he lost his shutout. Garcia helped his own cause with a three run homer in the sixth. The victory was his 15th, the most he has ever won in the majors.

Aussie Davis Cup Players Move Up

NEWPORT, R. I.—(AP)—Three Australian Davis cup players got into serious competition today in the third round of the Newport Casino's invitation tennis tournament.

After soft touches in the first two rounds, Frank Sedgman, Ken McGregor and Mervyn Rose, the Aussies, went up against players who could upset their march.

Rose crossed rackets with 17-year-old Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., who yesterday eliminated Jacque Grigry of Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-4.

Sedgman defeated Guro Fujikuro of Japan, 6-4, 614.

Cleveland Aces Get Pay Raises

Garcia And Mitchell Rewarded By Club

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Pitcher Mike Garcia and outfielder Dale Mitchell—key men in making Cleveland the American league's hottest ball club during the past month and a half—have been given pay raises.

Garcia, winner of nine games against one loss since June 26, and Mitchell, who boosted his batting average 92 points to .290 during the same period, were the only two Indians whose pay was cut last winter.

That was beginning to seem unjust to Hank Greenberg, the Tribe's general manager. Especially after last night's game in which the Indians whipped St. Louis 5-1 for their 33rd victory in 42 games.

So Greenberg called Garcia and Mitchell to his office after the game and tore up their contracts. He gave them new ones restoring the pay cuts, which he described as "not very big." Neither Garcia, with an 11-11 record, nor Mitchell, with a .308 batting average, had as good a year in 1950 as in 19[illegible].

Mike (Big Bear) Garcia, was the Tribe's only holdout last spring. On the face of the 27-year-old hurler's 14-5 sophomore year record, Greenberg had expected him to be a 20-game winner in 1950.

Brews Increase Lead, Split Doubleheader

(By The Associated Press)

Louisville snapped league-leading Milwaukee's winning streak at eight games Tuesday night but the Brewers bounced right back for a nightcap triumph to swell their top margin to 7½ games.

The Colonels took the doubleheader opener 3-2 as Jim Atkins hurled his fourth straight win over the Brews. Milwaukee grabbed the closer 8-3.

Indianapolis punched across three runs in the eighth inning for a 10-7 decision over Kansas City before a home crowd of 24,658, one of the largest in Kansas City history.

Toledo at St. Paul and Columbus at Minneapolis were rained out.

When Slammin' Sammy Snead won his third PGA crown at Oakmont, he became the first golfer to win three such titles since Hagen.

Widow Finds Miracle In Washington Slum

By EVER[illegible] CLARK

WASHINGTON— (NEA)— Mrs Julia Shelhamer has made two evangelistic tours of the world, but she found her miracle in a Washington slum.

It began with a suicide, a prayer and a want-ad.

The tiny, 70-yearold widow of Free Methodist Evangelist Elmer Ellsworth Shelhamer came here three years ago, after her husband died.

In a Negro slum centering around a two-story row house, she established her Free Methodist Mission. Here, she felt, she could do the most good.

The rundown house cost $15,000 —that's Washington real estate. Mrs. Shelhamer had only a thousand, but she went to work.

Things went unbelievably well at the humble little church. Friends all over the world responded, and the mortgage was pared down to $1400.

Then, last spring, Mrs. Shelhamer became distressed over the newspaper story of a prominent Washingtonian's suicide.

Someone ought to be able to help these people, she said, and she prayed. An ex-newspaperman who was staying at the mission wrote a cryptic want-ad, and handed it to her.

"I wasn't much taken with it at first," she said. "But he insisted and I let him publish it."

It first ran for three weeks in The Washington Daily News:

"MYSTERY: phone for discouraged. DI. 0614."

Immediately the calls began to come in. They were from people, mostly men, who were discouraged; many who were thinking of suicide. Calls came from the curious too, but often even they had problems.

"One night a man called and said he was in great trouble," Mrs. Shelhamer said. "I asked if he was discouraged. You see, you can't ask just what the trouble is. It wouldn't be ethical and it wouldn't be the psychological way to find out either.

"I just talked to him like I would to my own son, and pretty soon he said he was very unhappy. His beautiful wife had left him, and taken their two children. He was apparently walking the floor. He couldn't be consoled."

Mrs. Shelhamer suggested what she thinks is the only remedy.

"I said, 'Well, the Lord can help you.' But he was in such desperation that he couldn't receive consolation from any source. There was something very strange in his voice. I said, 'Son are you thinking of suicide?'

"He told me I was a pretty good guesser."

Mrs. Shelhamer began to pray.

"I think I prayed for a full minite, right over the telephone. When I got through his voice was changed. 'Oh,' he said, 'you've helped me. I feel better now. I'm going to work tomorrow and I'm going to forget all about it.' "

Most of her conversations were just as successful. The phone rang almost constantly. She took out the ad, but the calls came anyway. Then she re-inserted it, but limited the time she would answer the phone—"2 p. m. to midnight.

"They'd call just the same, day or night," she said. "To be jarred out of a sound sleep—sometimes I wish theyd leave me alone, but they want somebody to talk to them about their souls salvation, and there are so few people who will do that."

One day she counted the calls—110. She says a "good conservative estimate" is 80 a day—seven days a week—since last spring. It figures out to better than 20,000 calls.

"I find the world is sick and lonely and tired and disgusted with life, especially the sinners. If God helps me I can say the right thing—five or six words will do the job."

She is so swamped she has several people helping her answer the phone now—one girl is a would-be suicide who came to see her.

All this is getting to be almost too much for Mrs. Shelhamer. The little woman who has he[illegible] so many is weary.

"I'm so tired and scared and nervous," she says. "If you pray for me, I think I'll be all right.
